Striking Result of Coolness—A Brave and Determined Englishman. A letter from Beirout, of the 12th ult.

Tyre was very nearly being the theater of excesses similar to those which have taken place elsewhere, but the energetic conduct of an Englishman saved the town and the population. A band of Drusses and Mutualis were marching on the place, to the great terror of the people, when a small, light vessel was seen to enter the port. The Governor of the town, the English Consulate Agent, and the chiefs of the Christian communities, imagined that the vessel was one of war, and they that the vessel was one of war, and they prayed the commander to take measures for saving the town, but she turned out to be only a pleasure yacht, the Casmore, having on board her owner, a wealthy Englishman, Mr. Harve

Mr. Harvey That gentleman, however, without healts tion, promised his co-operation, and imme-diately placed his yach in such a position as to cuable her four small pieces of cannon to bear on the street, and he armed his crew bear on the street, and he armed his crew with muskets, swords and pistols. He afterward landed, examined the town in order to see the points by which the Druses could enter; he then caused the women, children, and more valuable portion of the property, to be placed in safety, and had certain points occupied by his men, taking other messures of defence. All this gave confidence to the peaceable part of the population, and overawed that which was suspected of comivance with the Druses. The latter were told by their spies that an English vessel-of-war was in the port, that English troops had been in the port, that English troops had been landed, and they in consequence abandoned their projected attack on the town and went

MORMON CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH MORMON CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH OF JULY.—The Salt Lake correspondent of the New York Herald fluraishes an interesting description of the celebration of the Fourth of July by the Mormons. Quite a display of patriotism and enthusiasm was made. The main street of the city was decorated with evergreents and flags, and the various occupants of buildings yied with each other in these manifestations of honor of the nation's birthday. Salutes were fired at sunrise and sunset at different parts of the city. In the foremoon a procession formed at the County Court-house, and marched thence to Temple Block, where the people were entertained by Court-house, and marched theuce to Temple Block, where the people were entertained by speeches from Gov. Cumming and others, the reading of the Declaration of Independence, and the delivery of a patriotic poem. In the evening there was a ball, attended by the most distinguished personages of the Territory. The work on the Temple, which was stopped at the time of the expected collision between the Mormons and the army, has been recommenced—a fact which would seem to indicate that the followers of Brigham have not yet decided to leave their "improvements" in Utah for a new home, either in Oceanica or the East India Islands.

A FAST WOMAN A NOISY TENANT IN PARIS The Civil Tribunal of Paris, some timeago, au-thorized a M. Vallerand, the owner of a house in Rue Blanche, to expel one of the tensats, Mme. Hare de Guilhem, from an apartment which she occupied on the ground floor, for the reason that she was a "noisy tenant," and the reason that she was a "noisy tenant," and received so many visitors as to annoy the other occupiers. The other day, Mme. Hare de Guilhem appealed to the Imperial Court against this decision, and her advocate contended that though she certainly did receive numerous visitors, and lived in good style, she was not a noisy tenant. On the part of the landlord, it was stated that his tenant, who is a dashing fomale, well known in Paris, received only gentlemen, and that not only who is a dashing famale, well known in Faris, received only gentlemen, and that not only were they noisy, but that it occasionally happened that some of them jumped from the window in order not to be seen by others who were knocking at the door—a thing, it was contended, not creditable to a quiet, respectable house. The Court confirmed the previous judgment.

"Oh, James, don't say the like of that," said the gentle-hearted woman, "don't; a poor scholar never came into the house that I didn't feel as if he brought fresh air from Heaven with him. I nover miss the bit I give them—my heart warms to the soft and homely sound of their bare feet on the floor, and the door almost opens of itself to receive them in."

Berring on Billiands Foundades in Panis. The reason why the decree of the Prefect of Police, forbidding the "Poule de Sebastopol," in the various caiss of Paris, has been issued; is, that it led to risking money among the players on chance rather than on address. In addition the Prefect has ordered that no public billiard-table can be permitted to be opened without authorization, and those now existing must be duly registered each year. No betting whatever is to be allowed, on pain of having the authorization withdrawn. The rules of the game must be hung up in every establishment, and if any thing but fair play takes place, the master is liable to lose his license.

A LIVELY BOY BECOMES A MOTRER.—The Mount Joy (Pean.) Herold says that "about three years ago, an apparent boy, giving his name as John Marsh, reached that place and engaged bimself to Mr. L. P. Brady, to learn the tin smithing. He was a fair-skinned fine looking fellow, but after remaining four or five months, left for Highspire, Dauphin County, where he has since been engaged as a hostler. He was boat-driving several years before going to Mount Joy. A few months ago this John Marsh was taken ill, and in the course of natural events turned out to be a woman, giving birth to a child, much to the astonishment of those with whom he daily tonishment of those with whom he daily Attempt at Murder and Suicide.

At the Winchester assizes, England, recenty, R. Simpson, a private in the rife brigade, was charged with an attempt to murder Sophia lowe at Winchester. Simpson and Rowe ecame attached to each other, and had spent two whole days together. One morning be-fore they got up, the prisoner said he was lired of being a solder, and should cut his throat, and he requested Rowe to borrow a rator for him. She told him she would not razor for him. She told him she would not borrow one. He then became very unhappy, and the girl gave him is. ed. to purchase a razor with. They got up; and in the course of the day the prisoner bought a razor, and he gave it to Rowe, who locked it up in her

When they went to bed at night, the pris oner asked Howe to put the razor under the head of the bed; she did so, and in the morn-ing, he said he was determined to cut his throat; she endeavored to dissuade him, but the said he would do it. Rowe said if he cut his own throat, he should cut hers first. He said he had not power to do it. Rowe said if he would not cut hers, he should not cut if he would not cut hers, he should not cut his. The prisoner then asked her to lay her arm down for him to put his head on. She laid her arm down, and he placed his head upon it. He then cut her throat, and afterward he cut his own. It would seem that some noise was made, and Mrs. Whatlen, the landlady, went into the room and saw them both lying on their backs with their throats cut. Rowe said, "Good bye," and the prisoner said, "This is love." Rowe then said, "I shall die happy." A surgeon, however, was promptly in attendance, and saved the lives of both parties. The jury found the prisoner guilty, and judgment of death was recorded.

Spurgeon Considered a Commonplace CLERGYMAN.-The editor of the New York Albion, having heard Spurgeon at Geneva, in witzerland, gives this opinion of him: Having read several of the preacher's published discourses, and failed to find in them any signs of decided originality—any thing, in short, which might account for his sudden eminence—I expected, not annaturally, to experience something of the undefinable magnetism which holds a listening crowd, or magnetism which holds a listening crowd, or at any rate, to notice in his manner or matter a piquancy, an eccentricity, or even an occa-sional touch of vulgarity, that might make him unlike his fellows. But the mystery of his rise and sustained clevation remains to me a mystery still. He has a fine sonorous voice and articulates every syllable with a refreshing distinctness; it is plain, too, that his heart is in his work. Will carnestness, then, and good lungs suffice for the achievehis heart is in his work. Will earnestness, then, and good lungs, suffice for the achievement of pepularity? One would scarcely have thought so. And yet otherwise Mr. Spurgeon's sermon seemed to me, and to others, exceedingly commonplace. I should venture to set him down as a most efficient and useful minister for a congregation of rustices, not as one likely to convince the disputations sceptic or alarm the lettered sons of ease. His fame, therefore, in myeyes, is only another example of the caprice of metropolitan taste.

Social Revolution in Italy—General Strike is Londardy.—A communication by the Messenger du Midi states that the operatives in Lombardy are striking for an advance of wages. The printers began, and their example was soon followed by the masons and smiths, who have compelled employers to accede to their demands. Domestic servants afterward turned out, and demanded to be paid in francs instead of Milan line of seventy-seven cents each. At Modena and and Bologna the market people tried to raise their prices, and the consequence was that a their prices, and the consequence was that a number of disorderly boys joined the servant in an attack on the provision stalls, and the pavement was soon covered with broken eggs, fruit and vegetables. At Como there are nearly 4,000 persons usually engaged in the manufacture, who have struck for higher wages, and as they have nothing to live on, the town is obliged to feed them.

The tornado reached the town about three o'clock in the afternoon, destroying or severely injuring overy house in the place. The office of the Platform was demolished just as the paper was put to press, destroying the type, presses and every thing connected with it. The residence of Gen. F. J. Marshall was blown down, severely injuring Mr. H. Williams, who was in it at the time. The postoffice was turned completely round and into the street. Mr. Phullman's dwelling, Harris & Foge's and Wingerter's store-houses were blown to pieces. Ice-houses, stables and fences were carried away, and rained. Every house in the place was more or less injured.

AR ÆBONAUT FALLS UNINJURED TWO MILES in a Parachute.—Professor Steiner, the eronaut, has been astonishing the people of St. Lawrence County, New York, by his feats. He made an ascension last week in company He made an ascension last week in company with another, and when at the hight of two miles, Steiner took a parachute and descended to the sarth. The spectators were thrilled at the sight, and stood breathless as the daring genonaut was descending. He landed safely, however. This has long been a favorite feat with the English and French genonauts. A parachute is made chiefly of silk or canvas, in the form of an umbrella, so as to gather in the air in its descent, and therefore fall steadily with its weight suspended underneath. It contains no gas, and the genonaut has no control over it except that his weight keeps it steady and right side up in its descent.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT—A MAN DRAGGED TO DWATH BY A HORSE.—John C. Mitchell, a well-known citizen of Richmond County Va., was killed, recently, by his horse running away with him. He was riding leisurely along the road, within a short distance of his home, conversing with his brother, when the horse suddenly took brother, when the horse suddenly took fright and started off at full speed, throwing Mr. M., whose foot was cutangled in the vehicle, to the ground, and dragged him for several hundred yards, until stopped by a tree. His body was shockingly disfigured, the skull being broken in several places, the mouth being torn completely open to the left ear, and one of the eyes torn entirely from its socket. Notwithstanding his frightful wounds, he lingered for forty-eight hours after the accident.

A number of gentlemen were put in nonination for candidates for Governor, among whom were Sames T. Brady, Chas. O'Connor and John A. Dix, of New York; but as doubts were expressed in regard to their accepting the nomination, a selection was postponed, and the Committee on Resolutions reported a series, of which the following is a brief synopsis:

They declare that the National Democracy of New York have no new allegiance to proclaim, no new doctrine to avow, but renew the protest against the absorption of all other issues in the agitation of the slavery question, and repeat the question whether this Union is to be preserved for white men, or destroyed on account of negroes.

That we equally oppose and reprobate the plan of Lincoln for interfering with the rights of slaveholders in the Territories by act of Congress, and the plan of Douglas for interfering with them by unfriendly territorial legislation; and that our principles stand defended by the Supreme Court of the United States, in the Dred Scott decision, as the doctrine of the Constitution.

That we inderse and ratify the platform adopted by Gushing's Baltimore Maryland Institute Convention, and accept it as our political faith. That we heartily inderse and approve of the administration of James Buchanan; also the nominations of Breckinridge and Lane, as the only regular candidates of the National Democracy. That we reprobate and condemn the conduct of the New York delegation to Charleston and Baltimore, and charge upon their factious conduct the disruption and division of the Democratic party. That the pretended nomination of Douglas and Johnson has no semblance of regularity, and is not binding upon the Democratic party; that Mr. Johnson was not nominated at all; and that Mr. Douglas's nomination was by a fraction of a broken up Convention; by a minority of hopelessly Republican States; and, finally, that as it is treasonably appacent that Breckinridge and Lane will receive from

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN IN ENGLAND.—A london letter-writer says: "We are making a great effort to do something for the ladies, to get them employment at work hitherto monopolized by the male portion of society. A great many titled people and the benevolent Florence Nightingale are at the head of the movement, and already several city firms have employed woman book-keepers among those recommended by the society. Two theaters have taken them as box-keepers, and the London Electric Telegraph is to be worked entirely by them. Short of an association for marrying them all to handsone husbands with £500 a year, this is an admirable any of making a provision for the ladies. ... The state of t
